Chinese People Exhorted "To Struggle To Death Against Chiang & U. S. Imperialism"

NANKING, Tuesday.
WHILE Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, President of the Republic of China in a New Year broadcast to the nation pledged that his "Government will never close the door to peace negotiations," "Yenan Emancipation," a daily organ of the Chinese Communist Party, exhorted the Chinese people "to struggle to death against Chiang and American Imperialism."

In his New Year message, Generalissimo Chiang said, "With the promulgation of a constitution, the persistent desire of the National Government to realise constitutional democracy in China has now been fulfilled. The Government's principle in maintaining unity and respecting peace is inflexible."

Generalissimo Chiang referred to the "extraordinary patience" of General George C. Marshall, special United States Envoy to China with the rank of Ambassador. General Marshall, Generalissimo Chiang said, "Promoted peace and unity for us—he deserves the gratitude of all our people."

"We are going to broaden the Governmental basis soon," he added.

Obviously attacking his own officials, Generalissimo Chiang said, "The poor are daily dying of starvation in streets, yet huge amounts of money are spent in restaurants and dance halls for momentous entertainments. This shows that the national morale is low."

The "Emancipation" declared that during the past six months, one fifth of Generalissimo Chiang's troops were annihilated in attacks against areas "liberated" by the Communists.—Reuter.

BIG DEFICIT IN SPAIN'S 1947 BUDGET

MADRID, Wednesday.
SPAIN'S 1947 budget approved by the Cortes (Spanish Parliament) last evening shows a deficit of £25,000,000.

Revenue amounts to £22,880,000 and expenditure to £6,13,000,000.

Senor Joaquin Benjumea Burin Minister of Finance, presenting the budget, said that he thought this time there would be no supplementary estimates.

The total expenditure was nearly £20,000,000 higher than the combined ordinary and supplementary expenditure in the previous budget period which amounted to £29,000,000.

The minister was authorised to raise a loan to cover the deficit.

By a Bill also passed this evening by the Cortes, the Bank of Spain was virtually semi-nationalised. In accordance with the new Bill the board of Directors of the Bank must be composed, half the number Government designates and half privately nominated directors.

The budget passed this evening aroused the strongest opposition which has ever arisen in the Cortes during the present Spanish regime. Out of the 180 members present 68 voted against the Bill introduced by the Minister for Finance.

Twenty per cent surcharge will in future be levied on unearned and earned income also on real estate property tax.

Increase varying in quantities also affect furniture, wool, cotton, silk and other consumer goods and also capital issues. Inland postage rates have risen by amounts varying between 20 and 150 per cent.—Reuter.

Two Iraq Ministers Resign

BAGHDAD, Tuesday.
SALIM JABAR, Iraq Minister of Finance and Sayid Sadiq Bassam, Minister of Education, both independent members of the coalition Government handed in their resignations today.

If the resignations are accepted by Regent Emir Abdul Illah, General Nuri-es-Said, the present Premier, will form a new neutral cabinet until after the forthcoming elections.

The reason for their resignations was disagreement over election issues and alleged illegal interference with the ministers.—Reuter.

Hazy Prospects Of Palestine Conference: Arab Terms For Participation Outlined

LONDON, Wednesday.
THE prospects of the Palestine Conference due to be resumed in London on January 21 are still very uncertain. The British Government is going forward with plans to hold the Conference, but, as the first session last October when only British and Arab delegates were present, the question of attendance is likely to remain uncertain until the last moment.

Though Palestine Arabs have repeated their decision to stay away from the Conference unless Britain extends an invitation to the exiled Mufti of Jerusalem, delegates from Arab States who came to London last autumn are again expected to attend the second session.

Well-informed Arabs in London express the view, however, that if Britain's only purpose in inviting Arab delegates to the resumed conference is to reject the Arab constitutional proposals for Palestine presented last autumn, Arab delegates' journey is scarcely worth while.

The Palestine Arab Higher Committee has decided not to endorse the Arab constitutional proposals in their present form. The amendments demanded by Palestine Arabs, it is learned from a reliable source, are:—(1) the ratio of Arabs to Jews in an interim Palestine Government should be 6 to one and not 7 to 3 as proposed by delegates of Arab State.

(2) Nomination of an interim Government should not be left in the hands of the British High Commissioner.

(3) Prohibition of transfer of land to Jews should be made absolute in all circumstances.

It is not yet clear whether delegates of Arab States will accept these amendments in their scheme. If they do accept, there is always a possibility that further delays might result while British delegates consider amended plan.

Decisive negotiations on Jewish attendance at the Conference are expected to open in London later this week after the arrival from Paris tomorrow of Davis.

Bengurion, head of the Zionist Executive in Palestine.

Britain's prospects of solving the Palestine issue on an agreed basis are now more unpromising than at any time since the Labour Government came to the office in the summer of 1945.

In Palestine, both Arab and Jewish opinion has grown more intransigent and violence has increased.

The refusal of the Zionist Congress to vote for attendance will probably rob Britain of supporting the presence of United States observers, promised by Mr. James Byrnes, the U.S. Secretary of State only on the condition that both Jews and Arabs were present.

Despite rumours to the contrary current in London yesterday, it is learned on good authority that Britain has formulated no new policy for Palestine and has reached no decision to impose a British scheme on the two parties immediately concerned.

This stage is most unlikely to be reached until after the next session of the Palestine Conference and even if that ended in a deadlock and failure Britain would still have to decide firstly, whether in the absence of an agreement to impose a policy; secondly if so, what policy to impose.—Reuter.

KING IBN SAUD REPRIEVED A VICOMTESSE

PARIS, Tuesday.—Sensational evidence is expected about Vicomtesse Magda d'Audaurain "acting as a British Secret Service Agent in the Middle East" when the murder case in which she is charged with murdering her nephew by giving him poisoned chocolates, opens here early in the new year.

The Vicomtesse, who appeared in court to answer the charge today, is said to have once been reprieved by King Ibn Saud after being sentenced to death by Arabs who captured her in the desert near Mecca following the death of her second husband who is stated to have been an Arab Sheikh.—Globe.
